THE POLAR BALLOON PROJECT.

Commander Cheyne's Ideas Fully Explained.

Commander Cheyne's project of reaching the pole by means of a balloon was, when first proposed, regarded as very chimerical, but has of late been assuming a degree of practicability in the minds of even the most conservative of Arctic explorers.

"One of the most important premises in this undertaking," he says, "is the fact that in eighty-one degrees, forty-seven minutes north latitude, which is our intended winter quarters, lies a magnificent bed of coal on the surface, and according to the report of Sir George Nares, 250 yards long by twenty-five feet in width, of unknown depth, an unlimited supply of well-nigh smokeless coal, equal to the best Welsh. Here we have discovered what is essential to the project, a source of heat. On this coal bed will be built a portable wooden house for officers and men and here the gas will be generated. It is my intention to generate two kinds of gas, pure hydrogen and carbureted hydrogen or common coal gas. This combination of gas will be more sticky, and thus will not so easily permeate the envelope of a balloon, and will be of greater lifting power than common coal gas alone. The larger the balloon the safer it will be.
We shall have three of good dimensions, each capable of carrying two tons in weight. Each will be fully equipped for separate traveling, in case of separation, which, however, judging from the results of my experiments with balloons, I do not anticipate. Each will carry a light boat, a sledge, a pack of Esquimaux dogs, and three persons, with the necessary stores, men and dogs being provisioned for five days. If a portion of the gas escapes from the balloons we shall refill by using the gas in one balloon and then deserting it. The balloons will be kept at an average elevation of 500 feet by trail ropes, the mountains being easily cleared by throwing out a little ballast.
This trail rope will be very important.
If the sun becomes a little warmer than usual the gas will, of course, expand, and the balloon be inclined to rise under such expansion, but directly this rising takes place the rope is lifted off the ice and acts as a counterbalance. Again, in the case of a cloud passing between the sun and the balloon, the gas will condense, and the balloon be inclined to descend, but in doing so more of the rope is deposited on the ice and this again counterbalances. Another advantage of the trail rope is to keep the same portion of the balloon always facing the north; in fact, it will in a great measure serve as a means of control. It will enable gelatin plate photographs and astronomical observations to be taken with accuracy and ease. Careful observations of the Arctic currents of air have convinced me that when certain well-known indications prevail in these latitudes, the wind may be relied upon to blow for two days or more in one direction. The distance to the pole from the point of departure will be only 469 miles, and this,
I estimate, can be easily accomplished in twenty-four hours. We expect to return from the pole either by balloon (with a favorable wind) or else by sledge, making our way back to St. Patrick's Bay, or possibly to some part of the Russian coast, should it appear better to take that course."

Scenery and Bumps.

In Nevada two rival coaches started out on parallel roads each four team on a gallop. A New Yorker, being the only passenger in one coach, took a seat with the driver. He endured the first five miles very well, as the road was pretty smooth, but he finally carelessly observed :

"This pace is rather hard on the horses, isn't it?"

"Oh, no! They are used to it. I haven't begun to swing 'em yet," was the reply.

"If you were going a little slower, I could enjoy the scenery much better."

"Yes, I suppose so; but this line isn't run on the scenery principle."

That ended the conversation until the horses turned a corner, and the stage rode around it on two wheels. Then the New Yorker remarked :

"I suppose you sometimes meet with accidents?"

"Almost every day," was the brief reply.

"Is there any danger of something giving way?"

"Of course; but we've got to take our chances. Glang there!"

At the end of another mile the passenger controlled his voice sufficiently to inquire :

"What if we shouldn't reach Red Hill by exactly two o'clock? I am in no hurry."

"No, I suppose not; but I've got to do it or lose ten dollars."

"How?"

"I've got an even 'ten dollars' bet that I can beat the other stage into Red Hill by fifteen minutes, and I am going to win that money if it kills a horse."

"Say, hold on!" exclaimed the other, as he felt for his wallet. "I like to ride fast, but I'm not a bit nervous, but I do hate to see horses get worried. Here's twenty dollars for you! Now, let's sort o' jog along the rest of the way, and get a chance to smoke and talk about Indians."

"Whoa, there! Come down with your gentle, now!—take it easy, and don't fret!" called the driver, as he pulled in, and reached for the greenbacks with one hand and for his pipe with the other. Thereafter the New Yorker had more scenery and less bumps.

The average size of farms in the United Kingdom is seventy acres. In England only the average is greater than this, but small holdings in Scotland and Ireland counterbalance the excess. In America the average size is taken as 100 acres; France, 35; Germany, 40; Belgium, 15; Holland, 50; Russia, 30; Austria-Hungary, 45; Italy, 30; Spain, 25; Portugal, 25; Turkey, 30; Greece and Switzerland, 15, and Sweden, 50 acres.

JUDGE ALVIN DUVALL and Hon. Richard Reed, are spoken of for Judge of the superior court, under the provisions of the bill establishing such a tribunal, lately passed by the legislature.

AMONG the bills passed by the House on Saturday was one to incorporate the Robert M. Owens Lodge F. A. M. at Tollesboro, Lewis county, and another for the benefit of John F. Pollett of that county.

THE bill before the Ohio Legislature known as the Smith Sunday Bill, has passed both houses and is now a law of the state. Under its provisions all places where intoxicating liquors are sold or exposed for sale are required to be closed on the sabbath day. There was much opposition to the measure, especially in Cincinnati, but it passed the Legislature, nevertheless by a vote of sixty-eight to thirty-one.

THE YEOMAN says: We have refrained from any reference to the charges made by the Louisville Commercial against Capt. Thos. J. Henry will appear in his own defense at an early day, and until then we ask the Democrats of the State to suppress any expression of opinion. He is entitled to be heard, and should not be judged until he is heard. His statement will be published before the middle of the week.

MRS. JESSE JAMES TALKS.

She Thinks if Jesse Had Been Let Alone He Would Have Been "An Honor to His Country."

Kansas City Journal.

Yesterday afternoon the wife of Jesse James was visited by a Journal representative, to whom she gave some interesting statements concerning those with whom she has been associated in past years. Mrs. James did not go to Kearney Tuesday night, as stated by a morning contemporary. The woman was found at the residence of her sister, Mrs. McBride, living on East Seventeenth street. There, with her two children Mrs. James is now staying. She, who has received so much newspaper notoriety of late, through the actions of her husband, is a woman presenting rather a pleasing appearance. The woman is of the blonde type. Yesterday she was dressed in mourning. With her were her two children, a boy and a girl of tender years. The former is a handsome little fellow, and showing by his countenance that he is possessed of more intelligence than lads of his age. The little girl looks like her mother. In the room with the little ones were other children amusing themselves with one of those weapons which are a terror to everybody, a bean-flipper.

Mrs. James offered no objection to an interview. She spoke of the Ford boys, who killed her husband, and expressed herself in harsh terms of their action. She stated that last fall Charley Ford had come to her husband while he was visiting his mother. Ford said that he was fleeing from officers, and asked to be protected. Oftentimes he had protected Jesse, and the latter proposed on this occasion to befriend him. Shortly after Jesse intended removing his family to St. Joseph, and there, he said, Charles Ford, with his brother Bob, could live and be safe.

When Mrs. James spoke of the action of the boys in killing her husband, she called them traitors. Then referring to their victim with tears in her eyes, and a voice affected with emotion, she said: "I know that Frank and Jessie have done wrong, but they have not been guilty of all with which they have been charged. Jesse was as kind to me as he could be; and for those children he got everything they asked for. He was a reticent man, and never told me where he intended going, but I always had an idea what he was doing. There's one thing certain, what I do know of Jesse will never be made public. I'll go to my grave without telling anything. The Ford boys told that Jesse intended robbing a bank the night that he was killed. That is not so. I know for a certainty that he never contemplated any such thing. When Jesse was home he always did what he could about the house. The day that he was shot he had been with me in the kitchen all the morning, until he went into room with the boys. I was sick at the time, and he helped me because it wasn't safe to hire a girl. Besides, we couldn't afford it. There are some people who believe that I have loads of money. That is not true. Only a few hundred dollars were left me.

When Jesse read that Dick Little had surrendered he said that Dick was a traitor and ought to be hung, and he was a traitor, too. Jesse used to get the papers regularly. When the train robbery was committed in Arkansas, he read it the next morning. He was charged by the papers with being connected with it. When he read it he said that he hoped the real robbers would be caught, and then the people would see that he was not connected with every robbery. When that was committed we were living on Troost avenue, in this city. We had previously lived on Ninth street and Woodland avenue, and I remained one week at the Daggett House. Jesse wasn't with me there however. Kansas City was the safest place we could get into, for people would not suspect us of living here. St. Joseph was a safe place also. We lived there nearly a year, and Jesse went all over the town. When we were living here no one knew of our presence except my brother, who clerks in the city. My sister didn't even know it. Jesse used to often visit his mother. He told me after his return on one trip that he had gotten on the train at the bridge depot. When the conductor came along he noticed that he had one finger off. Upon coming back the second time Jesse said he stopped him and asked him if he was not Jesse James, telling him that Jesse was minus a finger. When making these trips he was very prudent, and always careful to avoid officers. The Sunday before he was shot he told me that he wanted to go to his mother's home as soon as possible to see Johnnie, who was shot some time since.

Last winter Jesse told me that he wanted to settle down on a farm. We couldn't ever keep in one place, though, the officers were always after us. We lived at Nashville two years under the name of Howard, and then were driven away. If they (officers) had just left Jesse alone, we would have lived right and Jesse would have been an honor to his country.

Of Frank's whereabouts Mrs. James had little to say. She stated that she had not seen him since last September, when he met his wife at their home on Troost avenue, in this city. It will be remembered that during last fall mention was made of the presence of Frank's wife at the St. James. Then it was that she met her husband. Soon after, the two, according to Mrs. Jesse James, left for California. Jesse's wife stated that never a line of any kind was passed between the two brothers, as it was not considered safe. They often met, however. The story that Frank was at Jesse's burial was considered by Mrs. James absurd. She said Frank had too much sense to expose himself in that crowd.

Mrs. James had nothing to say upon the probabilities of her husband's death being avenged.

She will remain in the city for the present, making her home with her sister.

Indispensable to Merchants Shippers And Producers.

The outside frame of this carrier contains five trays, held in place by fasteners at end of case, as seen in cut. These trays are constructed in reversible halves. For cold storage this case will store 60 dozen eggs with racks made to receive the half trays, hence this is the cheapest storage case manufactured, saving largely in space.

The inner or holding the eggs on end prevents oscillation, juddering, or breakage, and adds greatly to their freshness when carried long in storage. Size of 30 dozen No. 1 cases 25x12x14, weighs 20 pounds.

MR. F. C. PETRY has just returned from a successful business trip to the interior of the state. He reports trade quiet.

No news has been received to-day concerning the Maysville postoffice. Both candidates appear to be confident.

SOME of the farmers with whom we have talked to-day, appear to think the wheat and barley are not so badly injured as was at first reported.

The boy who was struck by Ben. Lynch, colored, in East Maysville, a few days ago, has recovered and will appear at the trial before the mayor this afternoon. Lynch is charged with assault and battery.

A BEAUTIFUL white bird with wings five feet from tip to tip was killed on Friday near Mt. Gilead, by Mr. John N. Goodman and sent to the BULLETIN. It is either a gannet or a black backed sea gull, birds scarcely seen this far from the sea-coast.

MR. C. B. ANDERSON is now settled in his handsome new quarters and is ready to welcome his friends whenever they may be pleased to call. The building has been handsomely improved, supplied with a new elevator and is reality a hardware palace as it was a queensware palace.

COL. W. W. BALDWIN attended the horse sale, at Abdallah Park, near Cynthiana, on the 14th and brought home the animals named below:

The Major, chestnut colt, foaled 1880. By King Rose, son of Belmont, dam Ahee Ethel, own sister to Monroe Chief, record 238 1/4, by Jim Monroe, son of Alexander's Abdallah, $100. Nellie Harris, chestnut mare, foaled 1875. By Mambrino Hedgeford, son of Alecalde; dam by Alculde, son of Mambrino Chief, $370.

Mrs. JAMES LEWIS, the wife of the man who was found dead in his bed near Manchester, a week or more ago, was arrested on Saturday, on suspicion of having been instrumental in causing the death of her husband. About forty witnesses have been summoned to testify at the examining trial which takes place at Manchester to-day.

ANOTHER advertising car belonged to Sell's Brothers Circus, which will appear here on the 26th inst., arrived on Saturday night. A large force is to-day putting up bills in the neighboring towns and distributing programmes throughout the city. Arrangements are also being made for excursions on all the trains and by all the boats arriving and departing on the 26th instant.

Heavy Loss.

Mr. George W. Blatterman, who has just retired from business in this city, with the intention of removing to Denver, Col., his many friends will regret to hear, has been singularly unfortunate. A part of his stock of drugs that remained unsold, together with a large lot of household furniture and other personal property, were packed and shipped to Denver by the way of St. Louis on the steamer Montana. At Louisville the boat got on the falls which required the removal of a part of her cargo. When the boat reached St. Louis protest was entered, and when the salvage claims were settled Mr. Blatterman was obliged to pay one hundred dollars as his share. The goods were re-shipped at St. Louis on the steamer Jos. Kinney, and on the 13th inst., the boat was sunk by colliding with the Glasgow bridge while on her way up the Missouri River. All of Mr. Blatterman's property went down with her and is lost. In the lot was a fine piano, all of his household furniture, a lot of silverware and other valuable articles. There was an insurance of $1,500 on the property lost which is about one-third of its value.

Mr. W. O. HOLMES will leave by the Bonanza, this evening, to visit friends at New Harmony, Ohio.

Miss Reese Grinnan, of Cynthiana, has returned home, after a pleasant stay with her Maysville relatives.

Miss Ella Hubbard, daughter of Mr. Henry Hubbard, of this city, is dangerously sick.

Mrs. M. A. Trow and Miss Alice McElvaine are at home again after a visit to the family of Mr. R. H. Shultz, at Monmouth, Ill.

Mr. C. W. Roland, editor of the Greenville (O.) Democrat, called to see the BULLETIN, Saturday. He is visiting friends at Aberdeen.

National Bank.

The business of the bank of Pearce, Wallingford & Co., it is stated, is to be closed up as soon as possible, with a view to reorganization as a National Bank. It is reported that Mr. Wallingford will retire, and the new company will be composed of Mr. Charles B. Pearce, Mr. Jas. H. Hall, Col. Thomas A. Respass, Mr. W. H. Cox and Mr. John T. Wilson. It will be a very substantial institution.

The grand jury has returned an indictment against Adam Smith, for having counterfeit bank notes in his possession, with intent to pass the same. Smith is the person who was arrested in Maysville several months ago, on the charge of having offered a twenty dollar counterfeit note at Mrs. Williams' dry goods store and other business houses in town.

CONFEDERATE bonds are again in demand and are quoted at three dollars for every one thousand dollars. The orders for these bonds came from Germany this time.

CAPT. HOWGATE was allowed to leave the prison at Washington last week to visit his family for a few hours. He succeeded in eluding the bailiff in whose charge he was and has not since been heard from. The police in all the large cities have been notified of his escape, and a reward is to be offered for his capture.

GOV. BLACKBURN on Friday, sent another message to the Senate; recommending the following named gentlemen for appointment as Railroad Commissioners: Judge W. M. Beckner, of Clark county; Hon. D. Howard Smith, of Henry county, and Ex-Senator W. B. Machen, of Lyons county. Better names could not have been selected and they will doubtless be confirmed without opposition.

Alleged Thief Arrested.

Samuel Bulger, a young man, from Elizaville Junction, was arrested this morning by Deputy Marshal W. B. Dawson, on a despatch received from one Major Bulger. The young man is charged with stealing a suit of clothes. He denied that his name was Bulger and claims that he was Henry Smith of Ripley Ohio, but afterward admitted that his name was what it was stated to be. He is held subject to the orders of the Fleming county authorities.

The committee on the new jail met at Judge Wall's office on Saturday, and examined a number of plans submitted by Messrs. H. P. McDonald & Bros., of Louisville, and by Mr. C. J. Hodgson, of Indianapolis, Ind. They were much pleased with all the plans presented, but decided upon nothing definite. The committee on Tuesday, the 25th inst., will go to Winchester, Ky., Richmond, Ind., and Winchester, Ind., to examine jail buildings lately put up at those places. The committee seem determined to do their work well and to recommend the best plan to be obtained.

BORN.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A Sure Cure Found at Last—No One Need Suffer!

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams, (an Indian remedy,) called Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of twenty-five or thirty years standing. No one need suffer two minutes after applying this wonderful soothng medicine. Lotions Instruments and electuaries do more harm than good. Williams' Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense Itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant and painless relief, and is prepared only for piles, itching of the private parts, and nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Coffinberry, of Cleveland, says about Dr. Williams' Pile Ointment: I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave me such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams' Indian Ointment.

Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters.

Frazier's Root Bitters are not a druggist whisky beverage, but are strictly medicated in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the weak strong, heal the lungs, build up the nerves and cleanse the blood and system of every impurity.

For dizziness, rush of blood to the head, tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blisters, serous humors and sores, tetter, ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from weakness or debility caused from imprudence, and to females to deline health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as ever did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest blessings.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR.

To insure accuracy, as usual in such cases, we sent a proof slip of the above to a very competent regular physician, who returned it without correction or addition, except as follows: "The above is valuable and entirely reliable, and should be widely read. Nine-tenths of the people who take nostrums for catarrh have no such disease; but have been made to believe they suffer from it by the quacks who sell their useless and poisonous stuffs for the cure of catarrh at an immense profit. A common 'cold' is an acute catarrh, and properly treated is soon well. Chronic catarrh of any part of the mucous tract is not so easily cured, but fortunately is much more rarely seen by physicians even than people usually think."—American Agriculturist.

SIMPLE REMEDY FOR CATARRH AND BRONCHITIS.—It is now generally known that carbolic acid is strongly disinfectant, and very usefully applied to purulent sores or purulent wounds. Wood creosote is similar, is decidedly antiseptic and quite volatile. It is therefore natural to suppose it would be useful when applied to catarrhal and bronchial affections which arise from diseased or purifying mucus. We learned of its use for this purpose from Dr. Pescetto, a leading physician in the noted Italian medical school in Genoa, Italy. We have since recommended the following statement in many cases with the best results. It can do no harm, is simple, and is eminently worthy of trial, both for temporary and chronic affections:

For Bronchitis.—Get from the druggists a little good wood creosote. Put two drops of it into a bottle holding a pint or so. Pour in a little more than half a pint of clear water, and shake it well; also shake well always before using it. Take a mouthful of this, throw the head back, gargle it some time in the throat, and then swallow it. Repeat this every two hours, more or less, so as to use up the liquid within twenty-four hours. For each subsequent twenty-four hours use three drops of the creosote in three to four gills of water. This three drops a day may be continued as long as any bronchitis appears. Two to four days is usually enough, though it may be continued indefinitely without harm.

For Catarrh.—Prepare the creosote water as above, in any amount, at the rate of one drop of creosote to one gill of water (four drops to the pint), or a little more water if the creosote be very strong and the water too irritating. Make a fresh mixture once in two or three days, and as much oftener as more is needed. Take a handful of this water, previously well shaken, and snuff it through the nose into the mouth, and eject it. A little going down the throat will do no harm. Do this two or three times, and repeat it at bedtime, in the morning on rising, and, if need be, occasionally during the day. In fact, keep the nasal passages washed out with creosote water. Its vapor will even penetrate the bony cavities, and also be drawn into the lungs with useful results. It destroys the purulent mucus, and tends to prevent its further secretion. It is useful for any discharges from the nose or lungs produced by colds or general weakness. For bronchitis, and especially for catarrh, good rare cooked beef or other nourishing food, and quinine, if needed, to obtain and retain a vigorous system are capital aids to the creosote or any other medicine.

MINISTER HAMLIN somehow strayed to a bull-fight at Madrid, and, after watching the proceedings awhile, said: "Those fellows don't know how to handle a bull. Why, any farmer's boy down around Bangor would know enough to put a ring in the critter's nose and hitch a stick to it. Then they could lead the beast around as handy as could be."

If you think it is right to differ from the times, and make a stand for any valuable point of morals, do it, however rustic, however antiquated, however pedantic it may appear; do it, not for insolence, but seriously, as a man who wore a soul of his own in his bosom, and did not wait until it was breathed into him by the breath of fashion.
